Memories

Hurry! We'll be late.

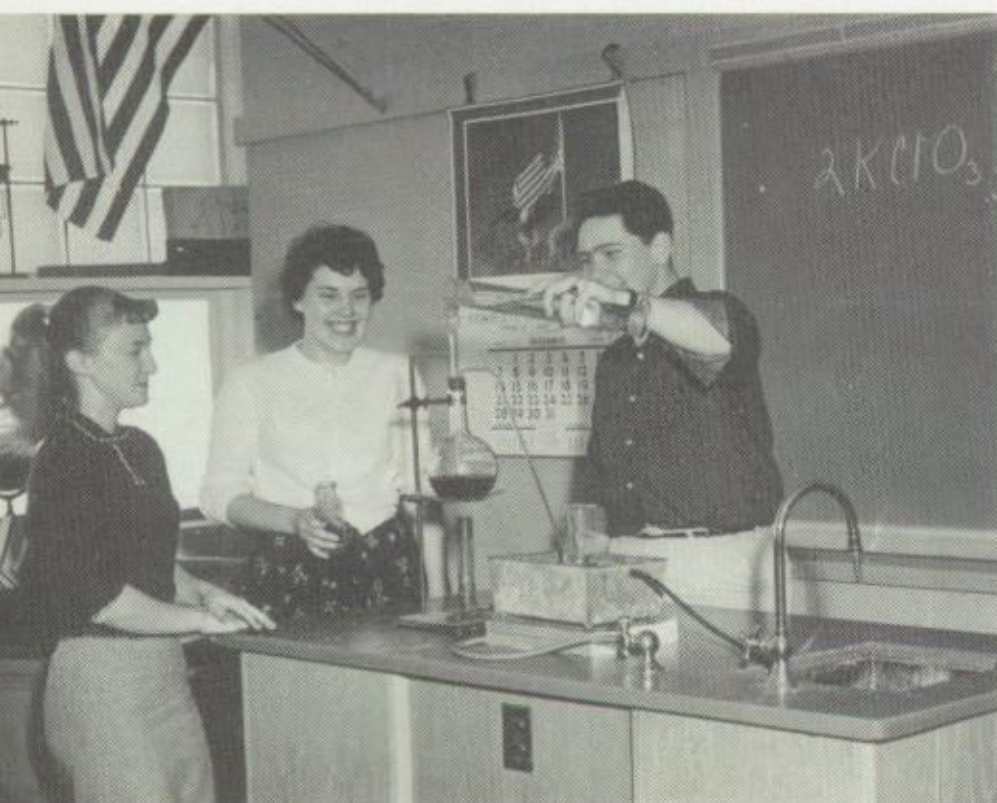

I pledge allegiance ...

We all must eat.

Time for a break.

Mad scientist.

Is it that difficult?

are made

A math whiz.

What's for lunch?

Repairs after lunch.

Speed! Speed! Speed!

Bookworms.

Come! Join in the fun.

of this

Are you planning your future?

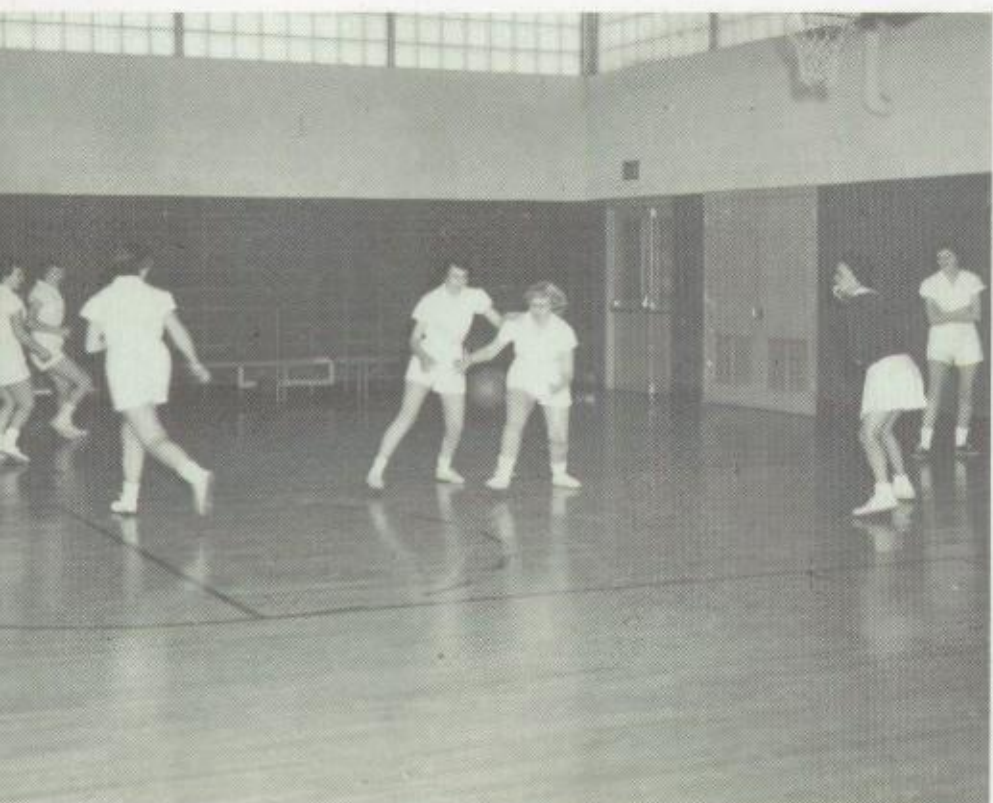

Another kind of counseling.

Everything has a deadline!

Where's the needle and thread?

Raise that score!

We want a basket!

Future furniture makers.

Time marches on!

How's the arm?

and this

Young love, first love.

Wake up! School's not over.

Oh, yes, it is!

Great men have always recognized education
as a source of national strength.

If a nation expects to be ignorant and free,
it expects what never was and never will be.

Your school is your larger self. You and your associates influence each other. You develop an atmosphere; you set standards for each other; you arouse interests and stimulate ideals. In your school you form the associations of a lifetime. From among your schoolmates you are likely to select your wife or your husband and in later years your business or political associates. This book is the "key" to those pleasant "memories." If your school has a good name, you share in that name. If you and your fellow students take pride in reflecting honor upon your school, the standing of your school will be a source of strength in your life. Your school is what you make it. If during your school days you stand for the best things in your own life and among your associates—talk about them, dream about them, think about them, plan for them—that school will be a power in the making of your mind.

"Father's Been Senior

Seated—William Bower, Romaine Rapp, June Say, Eugene McElhattan, Shirley Galbraith, Diane Best. Standing—Ted Rhea, Miss Wilshire (director), Edward Gray, Kay Jean Kenemuth, Linda McElhattan, Linda Barrett, Jeanetta Crissman.

As timely as today's telecasts was the play presented November 13 and 14 by the graduating class of 1959. "Father's Been To Mars," by William Dalyell and Newt Mitzman, thoroughly appeased the appetite for comedy. The play, under the direction of Miss Mary Jane Wilshire, satirized that most familiar of programs—The Space Patrol. Capt. Galaxy, defender of the skies, became Larry Gibson, space-happy husband and father. Just being "in orbit" on TV proved not enough for Larry, who complicated everyone's life, especially with the appearance of Countess Vilma, sultry space villainess. All was corrected, however, with the help of Eartha, the maid, and celestial peace once again returned to the family he left behind when—father went to Mars!

CAST OF CHARACTERS

Mildred Gibson, hobbyist and housewife personified Shirley Galbraith

A SECOND COURSE IN ALGEBRA

257. Trigonometric functions. We shall now define three so-called trigonometric functions of an angle. Consider the triangle ABC , in which $\angle C$ is a right angle. Let the sides opposite the angles be a, b, c , as shown in the figure.

Then we know that the ratios $\frac{a}{c}, \frac{b}{c}, \frac{a}{b}$ depend upon the size of $\angle A$. These ratios are called sine A , cosine A , and tangent A , respectively. They are written $\sin A, \cos A, \tan A$, but pronounced as just given.

That is, in a right triangle ABC , with sides a, b, c , we have

$$\sin A = \frac{a}{c}, \quad \cos A = \frac{b}{c}, \quad \tan A = \frac{a}{b}$$

These definitions are also written, remembering that we are dealing with an acute angle of a right triangle, $$\sin = \frac{\text{side opposite}}{\text{hypotenuse}}, \quad \cos = \frac{\text{side adjacent}}{\text{hypotenuse}}, \quad \tan = \frac{\text{side opposite}}{\text{side adjacent}}$$

If the sides of a right triangle are 3, 4, 5, then

$$\sin A = \frac{3}{5}, \quad \cos A = \frac{4}{5}, \quad \tan A = \frac{3}{4}$$

Using trigonometric functions to find a distance CB , we would measure the side CA and the angle at A .

$$\text{Then, } \frac{a}{b} = \tan A, \text{ or } a = b \tan A$$

Now suppose that $\angle A = 37^\circ$, and suppose we know the distance $CA = 1526$. Suppose also that $CB = 1000$ feet. Then

$$a = 4 \tan 37^\circ = 304.0756$$

But how are we to know that this is the distance? We learn from tables that we are to divide the distance by the sine of the angle.

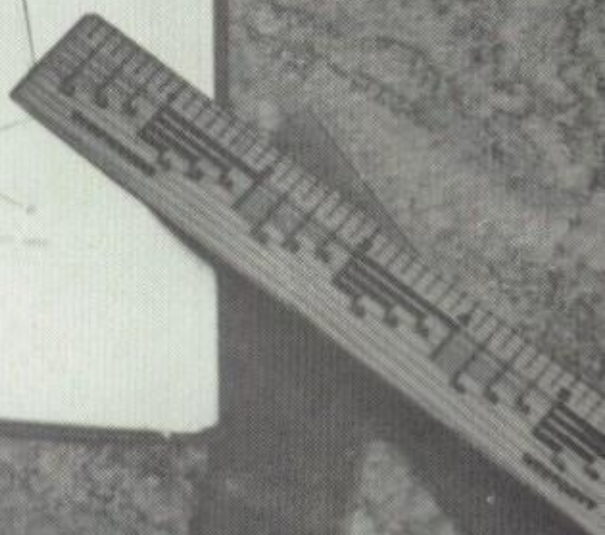

INDIRECT MEASUREMENT; TRIGONOMETRY

393

From $\sin A = \frac{a}{c}$, $\cos A = \frac{b}{c}$, $\tan A = \frac{a}{b}$ we get $a = c \sin A$ (1), $b = c \cos A$ (2), $a = b \tan A$ (3). In each of these it is necessary to use a table to find the sine, cosine, or tangent of a given angle.

258. Measuring angles. You have already learned that a right angle is divided into 90 equal parts, each part being called a degree, written 1° . Seven degrees is written 7° , 54 degrees is written 54° , while 16 degrees 30 minutes is written $16^\circ 30'$.

The instrument used for measuring angles is called a transit. It is used in surveying, and in many other branches of science. It is a very delicate instrument, and is used to measure the angle between two lines. It is also used to measure the distance between two points. The transit is a very important instrument in many branches of science.

Both Mrs. Virginia Fye and Mrs. Fleming are daughters of organizing officers—Mrs. Fye being the daughter of the first president, Mrs. Guy Weaver (1928-29), and Mrs. Fleming being the daughter of the first treasurer, Mr. John Wencil (1928-29). Mrs. Kathleen Fye is the daughter of a past president, Mr. Guy Sheets (1948-50). Miss Whitehill has served four terms as president of the organization—1938-39, 1944-45, 1953-54, 1954-55. The two Mrs. Fyes and Mrs. Fleming received their entire public school education at Ashland School.

Our Sincere Appreciation

Among those who play a most important part in our yearbook are those businesses and organizations who so graciously patronize our book by advertising in it. Each year they are approached by the advertising staff, and each year they reward us with their generosity. If these concerns did not render their financial aid, our yearbook could not possibly exist. For this reason the staff wishes to say "thank you" to you, our advertisers.

Let us keep in mind the generosity of these people and show our gratitude by patronizing their places of business.
